

CONGRATULATIONS!!

SAHS 2nd NextGen Virtual Spring School 2023

Hypertension and Circulatory Health A Focus on Prevention and Treatment

The Southern African Hypertension Society NextGen Spring School offers students & researchers the opportunity to showcase their research and the experience of presenting, defending, and discussing their work in front of an encouraging and competitive audience of mentors and peers.

ABSTRACT PRESENTATION AWARD WINNERS

1st Place: Miss Aaliah Charles

(University of the Witwatersrand)

Population Science

Topic: Impact of uromodulin concentration on renal and haemodynamic parameters in a community of African ancestry with a high prevalence of hypertension.

First Runner-up: Mr Siluleko Mkhize

(University of the Witwatersrand)

Basic Science

Topic: Decreased blood pressure with intravenous administration of quercetin in L-NAME-induced hypertensive female Sprague-Dawley rats.

Second Runner-up: Miss Chanelle Volschenk

(North-West University)

Basic Science

Topic: The KINDL-R in a South African context and the association of health-related quality of life with cardiovascular measures in children.

SAHS acknowledges with appreciation Corporate Support from:

info@hypertension.org.za